The Polish American Congress came into being five years ago at a time when the question of Poland's fate was still being decided by her friends and wartime allies. The Congress comprises national, regional and local organizations and parishes, representing approximately five million Americans of Polish extraction. It was instituted for the purpose of disseminating the truth about Poland and awakening America to the threat of world Communism, and is dedicated to the principles expressed in the Atlantic Charter and by the Four Freedoms as the basis for a lasting foundation of peace and security for the world.
